

<https://www.bostonglobe.com/2022/07/15/arts/seasons-overflowing-with-dance-all-types-jacobs-pillow-becket-quarry-vermont/>

SEVEN WEEKS OF SUMMER

The season's overflowing with dance of all types, from Jacob's Pillow in Becket to a quarry in Vermont

By Karen Campbell Globe Correspondent, Updated July 15, 2022, 7:00 a.m.

The Quarry Project ensemble rehearses for the site-specific dance/theatre piece in the Wells Lamson granite quarry in Websterville, Vt. JULIA BARSTOW

Up in Vermont, The Quarry Project (Aug. 5-21, thequarryproject2022.com) promises to be one of the summer's most enchanting projects. Choreographer Hannah Dennison created the dance/theater performance for the Wells Lamson quarry in Websterville. Set to an original score by composer Andric Severance, it features an ensemble of 17 dancers and five musicians spread over a six-acre stage lit only by the natural light of the sun and reflections off the water. Credit summer itself for this striking backdrop.